

Three Model A's traveled to the Tractor Show in Temple. Al Bohn drove his Fordor, my son in law and his father ground the gears in my Tudor and I tried to keep warm in my roadster pickup. We took the back roads up, going through Holland and Little River. It was a nice drive.

The show was much bigger than last year. It was impossible to see it all. The weather was perfect and after the little rain they had, the dust was down. We watched the tractor pulls with the young kids, (both boys and girls) driving and handling these big old machines. The food this year was so-so but the ice cream was good. We spent about four hours there before heading home. It was a good time.
